GLO'STER GAME OFF

Gloucester's game with Exeter University tonight has been called off because the Kingsholm pitch is still frostbound.

Although milder weather is forecast for later tonight, there was little prospect of the thaw coming in time for the kick-off and Gloucester officials had no option but to call the match off after they had made a mid-morning inspection.

There is little danger at this stage, of Saturday's County semi-final with Middlesex having to be postponed.

Stand tickets for the game will be on sale at the Gloucester Rugby Social Club tonight.
