It is with great pleasure that we welcome the second county match of this season to Aberavon. Some months ago the Glamorgan team played vintage rugby on this ground to gain a resounding win over a strong Pembrokeshire combination, and though the opposition is likely to be even stronger this evening, spectators can rest assured that the Welsh County will try to play good football.

Gloucestershire, semi-finalists in this year's English County Championship, are a very strong force to contend with, and, well served in the past few seasons by such experienced campaigners as Bill Hook of Gloucester and Tom Price of Cheltenham, have fought many a rousing battle with the best opposition over the border.

We are always delighted to welcome English visitors because they can be relied on to supply first rate sporting entertainment. There is no reason to believe that Gloucestershire will disappoint us to-day.
