OUR VISITORS

At last; the match we have all been waiting for since it was announced in late summer that the famous Irish Wolfhounds would be meeting Gloucester at Kingsholm!

This evening we extend a very cordial welcome to our distinguished visitors, who need no introduction to rugger fans. A glance at the list of names in the Wolfhounds' ranks is sufficient to show how tremendous will be Gloucester's task.

A fortnight ago most of us must have had mixed feelings about the outcome of this match. Gloucester, it seemed, were having one of those lean periods that come to all teams, great and small, in turn; hopes of extending the famous Wolfhounds appeared remote indeed. But that magnificent display against Moseley at the Reddings last Saturday when the lads inflicted upon the Midlanders their first defeat of the season, suggests that they have found their best form just in time. They will need all their skill and fire tonight against the Wolfhounds, to whom we say, "Welcome" indeed – and, we hope, many happy returns!

KINGSHOLM KACKLE

Our sympathies go out to Gary White following his injury at Moseley, where he fractured his cheek bone; he is expected to be out of the game for at least three weeks. This is indeed tough luck, for Gary was naturally looking forward eagerly to playir against the Wolfhounds this evening.

In the October issue of "Rugby World", now on sale, Do Rutherford writes the first of a new series of articles called "Ti from the Top." In it he explains numerous aspects of the fir back's art – and who better qualified to give "tips from the to on this important position than Don? Also in the same iss Vivian Jenkins wonders if Gloucestershire can put an end Warwickshire's run of county championship successes this season

Lucky programme number for the Neath match last Saturday week was 721. The holder, who wins £5, was M. Cooper, 19 Coney Hill Road, Gloucester. Congratulations!
