OUR VISITORS

We extend a particularly cordial welcome this afternoon to Oxford University, always one of the season's star attractions at Kingsholm, where they have rarely failed to thrill the large crowd who make this popular fixture a "must" in their diaries.

The Dark Blues lost to Northampton last Saturday by 19 points to 8, but the score gave a completely distorted view that did them no justice at all, for shortly after the interval, when they were actually in the lead, the University lost prop forward Gould and winger Coker through injury within the space of a few minutes.

The handicap of having to play with only 13 players for most of the second half obviously proved too big a handicap and Northampton were distinctly flattered by the margin of their victory.

We can be sure that this afternoon's game will, as usual, produce the exciting and constructive rugger we have always associated with our visitors.

KINGSHOLM KACKLE

Last season the Dark Blues did not visit Kingsholm, but Gloucester beat them at Oxford by 13 points to 12, thanks mainly to the accurate place kicking of Don Rutherford. He landed a penalty goal and converted the two tries scored by Peter Ford and Dick Smith.

The holder of the winning programme, No. 147, for the Coventry match last Saturday was 'Mrs. D. Long, 75 Merevale Road, Gloucester who received £5. Congratulations!
