OUR VISITORS

This afternoon we give a warm welcome to another north country club, Fylde, who, we believe, are making their first-ever appearance at Kingsholm.

We hope they will enjoy their visit to our lovely ground and look forward to an enjoyable feast of holiday rugger.

KINGSHOLM KACKLE

It is time our ground at Kingsholm had a "spring-clean", though of course it must be left to the close season. With this in mind an appeal is made for volunteers from members, supporters and friends to join with players and committeemen in helping with the many odd jobs that are necessary to make the ground look spick and span for next season.

These jobs will have to be started as soon as possible after the present season ends, and the more volunteers the merrier, as one says. Any assistance would indeed be deeply appreciated and those willing to give a little of their leisure time during the summer months when possible are invited to contact secretary Terry Tandy or any committee member.

It's our club; let us make the buildings, the walls, the gates, in fact, the whole surrounds, match the perfection of the playing area itself!

The next home match is not until Saturday, April 19th, when Sale will be the visitors. But next Saturday, April 12th, Gloucester United meet Newbury at Kingsholm (kick-off 3.15 p.m.).

And next Sunday, April 13th, there will be another full quota of rugby when the North Gloucestershire Combination stages its annual seven-a-side tournament at Kingsholm. Come along and support the local lads!

There will be no Bingo in the Social Club this evening, of course, but these popular sessions will resume next Monday, April 14th, commencing 8 p.m.

It is bad luck that David Ainge will be unable to play again this season because of a recurrence of his back injury, sustained when playing for Bristol against Leicester just before Christmas. Roy Morris, too, carried off on a stretcher in the game with Newport at Rodney Parade last October, has wisely decided to give rugger a miss this season.

A.R.

Saturday, April 12th at Kingsholm.
