CLUB NOTES.

Our first duty and pleasure today is to wish everyone here the best of good fortune for 1972, the celebration of which some of us are bound to be feeling this afternoon.

For the London Scots, at any rate, New Year's Eve promised a demanding start to 1972 for Gloucester are our opponents today and we welcome them and their very positive brand of West Country rugby to the Athletic Ground.

How do the Scots stand at the turn of the year? Reasonably well, we would say, but the pressure will be on us in the second half of the season as today will undoubtedly prove.

On the club's Christmas tour to Scotland, the side lost to West of Scotland but was successful against Edinburgh Academicals.

The final trials of England and Wales dominate the scene today and Gloucester provide two players, Alan Brinn and Mike Burton, to the English trial at Twickenham. Next week, London Scots Alastair McHarg and Alastair Biggar will be in the final Scottish trial.

Gloucester, as their record below shows, have lost only five times this season. Despite absentees, they will surely be out to impress today.
