GLOUCESTER V. LLANELLY.

A SHOCK FOR THE SOSPAN.

BY "TEEK."

There was much bustle and activity among Llanelli folk over last week end. On the Saturday morning everyone was lending a hand in preparing for the coming feast of Gloster Stew ("Cawl Gower Glou" I think they call it) which they all look forward to every year. Some were busy chopping onions, others feeling spuds, and getting the table ready, while a party made the journey to Gloster to fetch the joint.

But the only part of the joint which they got in their little Sospan was the boot end.

Therefore, it is sad to relate, the expected feast did not come off — and the Llanelli Tinsmiths had to put in a lot of very busy overtime instead.
